

Tribute to Christopher Louis Eskell

CEO of the PROMPT Maternity Foundation

30th January 1951 – 25th October 2016

It is with great sadness that the Trustees would like to share the news that Christopher Eskell, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the PROMPT Maternity Foundation (PMF), sadly passed away on the 25th October 2016.

No words can adequately describe Christopher's contribution to creating our charity and his work underpinning all of our successes. He was the Chief Executive Officer of PMF for the past 5 years and thanks to his skills and dedication, PROMPT has grown from a small Bristol project, into an international gold standard for training. PROMPT is now making childbirth safer in more than 70 countries worldwide.

We miss him greatly already, but are determined to continue our work, as was his wish. Christopher's meticulous organization and planning has made PROMPT training potentially available for carers of more than half of the births in the world. We aim to do justice to his impressive achievements and legacy.

Thank you to Christopher and his loving family, from all of the PMF Trustees & members.

Mark James
Chairman of Trustees (PMF)
